

#114 WHATNOTS

Fat
Quarter
Cutie

What is a WhatNot? Well, I ask you...What is it NOT? It's a Basket, Purse, Doorstop and more. It's the perfect practice square too. All you need is two squares of fabric and a little batting if you like. This is a great way to use fat quarters and leftover quilt blocks. It doesn't matter what size your squares are.

A WhatNot is the perfect practice square for learning any new technique on your sewing machine. From quilting to new stitches - practice, practice, practice - then make a WhatNot with your practice square. It's great for practicing other techniques too. Try applique or hand quilting, then make a WhatNot with your practice work. A WhatNot is a great way to use otherwise un-usable leftovers, practice pieces, miscellaneous scraps, old quilt blocks, and of course, fat quarters. The pattern works with any size square. How easy can that be?

SUPPLIES

2 Squares of fabric - These can be cut from fat quarters, quilt blocks or yardage. The examples shown in this pattern use 17" squares cut from fat quarters. You can use any size squares you like.

1 Square of Batting - A little bigger than your fabric square.
